

Humber Acute Services Review – Update

22 March 2018

The Review Steering Group has today published an Issues Paper to support public, patient and staff engagement in the work of the review. The purpose of this document is to set out some of the big challenges the NHS and other health and care bodies in the Humber area are facing. It describes some of the work that NHS bodies, local Councils and other health and care organisations are doing in partnership to help improve local health and care services.

The Issues Paper is not a formal consultation document. It has been produced in order to start a conversation with local people, staff and other interested parties. The partners involved in conducting the review want to ensure we have many ways to listen to views and experiences from a range of patients, carers, staff groups, clinicians, community groups and other organisations.

We hope, through this Issues Paper, to highlight some of the really difficult challenges that our local health and care system is facing in the Humber area and welcome thoughts and ideas about how best to respond to them from a wide range of people.
